OUTLINES.

A woman in New York kills her husband with an axe and then attempts suicide by swallowing Paris green and chloroform.—The committee on arrangement of the Denver convention hall are busy at work. Most of the arrangements have been completed.—Yesterday Mrs. Robert S. McCormick had a race from Chicago to New York by rail to catch her steamship for Europe. She arrived just in time.—On the first ballot in the Republican National convention yesterday Mr. Taft received 702 out of the 980 votes of the full body, and the nomination was then made unanimous. The convention adjourned to meet today to nominate a Vice President. The Taft-Roosevelt platform was somewhat modified as to the injunction plank.—Mr. Taft got the full vote—twenty-four—from this State.—The New York delegation at the Chicago convention last night decided to cast its entire vote today for Congressman Sherman for Vice President.—Mrs. Taft spent yesterday afternoon in the Secretary's office, scanning all the bulletins which came in and showing great interest in the proceedings of the convention. She was very much interested in the adoption of the platform.—It was announced at Chicago last night that Mr. Taft would be allowed to name his running mate, to be nominated today, if he chose to do so.—New York markets: Money on call easy 1-2-3-4 per cent, ruling rate 1-2, closing bid 1-2, offered at 1-3-4, time loans dull and easy. Spot cotton closed quiet, 19 points higher, middling uplands 12.10, middling gulf 12.35. Flour quiet and hardly steady. Wheat easy, No. 2-red 98 elevator, Options 1-3 to 1c lower. Corn firm, No. 2, 77 elevator. Oats steady, mixed 53@55. Rosin quiet. Turpentine quiet.

"They say" there was considerable money "posted" on the base ball game yesterday.

After next Wednesday let's all get down to business and stop talking local politics.

Today it is Candidate Taft. What will it be after the Tuesday after the first Monday in November next?

The Roosevelt stampede did not materialize. Wonder who is the most disappointed that it did not do so?

The managers of the Chicago convention did a sensible thing in limiting the nominating speeches to two for each candidate.

As Mr. Bryan has such admiration for Mr. Roosevelt, no doubt he is delighted it is not the latter he will humiliate by defeat next November.

The Newbern Journal is still bemoaning the cutting down of the shade trees on the streets of its city, and we cannot blame it either.

Now let all Tar Heel Democrats get together and see to it that Mr. Taft's opponent, no matter who he may be, gets a record breaking majority in this State.

If any faith is to be put in Republican promises why is it that party is still making them after having been in power for over ten years? It's about time it was redeeming some of those made nearly a dozen years ago.

Only one more week of political strife among the Democrats of our State. The State convention meets next Wednesday. When it is over let's all get together and work for that candidate who is shown to be the choice of a majority of the voters of the party.

Now the Democrats know what they are up against. Will Mr. Taft be the easiest or the hardest man for them to defeat among all those who were candidates for the nomination? Is Mr. Bryan the strongest or weakest man to put up against him? These are questions men will answer according to their preference for Mr. Bryan or for some other candidate.

The Prohibitionists lost by a very small majority in the Louisiana Legislature—such a small one that they are encouraged to make another trial at the earliest opportunity; and they will be apt to succeed unless in the meantime the Prohibition wave reaches its crest and has begun to recede, which some think will come in the near future.

There is one thing sure; there will be no sulking by the Horne men should their candidate fail to receive the nomination. We know it would greatly distress Mr. Horne were any of his followers to pursue that course. His desire would be that all his friends give as hearty support to his successful opponent as they would have given him had he been nominated.

THREE KILLED BY GAS

Tragedy at The Caraleigh Phosphate Works Near Raleigh, Yesterday Morning.

THE PROHIBITION MAJORITY

Fourth District Congressional Convention—Hon. T. W. Bickett to Nominate Horne—Other State Capital News.

(Special Star Telegram.)
Raleigh, N. C., June 18.—Daniel Jones, Frank Spikes, and Haywood Low, white, all of this city, were killed today at the Caraleigh Phosphate Works, on the outskirts of the city, by the escape of sulphuric acid gas in one of the rooms. Three others were almost overcome but recovered.

The State Board of Elections completed its canvass of the returns of the State prohibition election this afternoon and made official certification to the Governor as follows: For prohibition 113,612; against prohibition 69,416; majority for State prohibition 44,196. Total vote cast in election 183,028. Total vote cast in election for Governor four years ago 208,266, showing a falling off of 25,238 in the total May 26th in the State prohibition election as compared with the vote for Governor.

The Fourth District Congressional Convention renominated Congressman Edward W. Pou, of Johnston county, to succeed himself today, making the vote unanimous after a minority Wake delegation had cast eleven votes for W. J. Peele of Raleigh. There was a contest for the nomination for Presidential elector, R. S. McCain, of Vance, winning after eleven ballots over W. C. Douglass, of Wake, R. H. Hayes, of Chatham was nominated without his knowledge and withdrew his name early in the contest.

The convention named J. W. Thompson, Wake, and J. T. Ellington, Johnston, delegates to the National Convention. Resolutions were adopted instructing the delegates at Denver to support William Jennings Bryan for President, urging that the State convention at Charlotte instruct for him. On his return from Charlotte the Governor says that he has been observing the present primary campaign for Governor and will recommend to the next Legislature a State primary to be held in all counties on the same date, candidates to be required to file statements of their campaign expenses.

Charters granted: People's National Bank, Leaksville, capital $10,000 by A. E. Miller, C. N. DeShazo, J. W. Irie and S. L. Martin; Bradham Drug Co., Durham, $50,000 authorized, $5,000 subscribed by C. D. Bradham, R. F. Butler and others. Empire Insurance Company, New York, is licensed to do business in this State.

County Superintendents are advised by State Superintendent Joyner to insist that the levies of special local tax, both poll and property, be made as usual this year, regardless of the Supreme Court's action in regard to the maximum of $2 for poll tax. He pledges to see that a test case is made up for construction by the Supreme Court.

There will be quite a ceremonial tomorrow when Governor Glenn signs the official declaration of the result of the prohibition election. Many prohibition workers from all parts of the State are expected and the pen with which the Governor signs the papers will go to State Chairman Oates.
Hon. T. W. Bickett, of Louisville, is to place Hon. Ashley Horne in nomination for Governor at the Charlotte convention next week. He is one of the most fluent, witty and attractive speakers in the State and his selection meets with hearty approval among the friends of Col. Horne.

Members of the State Election Board canvassing the prohibition returns here today are Wilson G. Lamb, Williamson, chairman; R. T. Claywell, Morganton, secretary; R. L. Smith, Stanley; A. B. Freeman, Hendersonville, Clarence Call, Wilkesboro.

There is much interest in the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Susan Graham Clark, daughter of Chief Justice Walter Clark of the Supreme Court, and Mr. Joseph Ernest Erwin, of Morganton, the ceremony to be in the First Baptist Church, this city, June 30th. Mr. Erwin is secretary-treasurer and superintendent of the Alpine cotton mills, Morganton, and is a prominent and successful young business man.

Salvage From Steamer Weems.

Messrs. H. G. Smallbones and Geo. Harris, arbitrators as between the underwriters and salvors of some 80 bales of cotton and 40 casks of spirits turpentine from the steamer George Weems, which was recently burned off this coast, have agreed upon 55 per cent for the salvors and 45 per cent net for the owners. The cotton and turpentine will be sold Saturday and from the net proceeds of the sale Mr. Geo. T. Shepard, the wreck commissioner will make the distribution of the net proceeds as stated.

SIGMA NU'S ANNUAL DINNER

Alumni Chapter of Wilmington Enjoyed Delightful Social Session at Seashore Hotel Last Evening—Responses.

The first annual meeting and dinner of the alumni chapter of the Sigma Nu fraternity in this city, last night at the Seashore Hotel, was a delightful affair in every respect and was enjoyed by nearly a score of the enthusiastic members of the fraternity here and visiting members from elsewhere.

The dinner began at 9 o'clock and lasted until nearly midnight, good fellowship and brotherly love having reigned supreme during those hours. Dr. Joseph Akerman acted as toastmaster in a very pleasing manner and welcomed the guests in a happy speech opening the festivities of the evening. The response in behalf of the visitors was by Mr. H. T. Patterson, of Cincinnati, now connected with the office of the United States Army Engineer in Wilmington. An elegant menu was served and after Havanas had been lighted, there were a number of after-dinner speeches, all happy and scintillating with wit and humor. Among the responses were:

Dr. Joseph Akerman—"Our Fraternity."

Mr. Patterson—"Experiences of a Frat. Man in the Business World."

Mr. Horace M. Emerson—"What Sigma Nu Means to Me."

Mr. Clayton Smith—"Aid in Time of Need, Brother to Brother."

Mr. E. Q. LeGrand—"Co-operations of Our Chapters."

Mr. Thos. F. Wood—"Our Motto."
Among those who sat at the festive board were Messrs. Allan Huggins, Alban Pleasants, W. M. Peck, Clayton Smith, H. M. Emerson, W. P. Emerson, E. P. Bailey, Jos. M. Armstrong, Dr. Jos. Akerman, Capt. Haywood Clark, H. T. Patterson, E. Q. LeGrand, Waddell Waters, H. K. Nash, Thos. F. Wood, J. G. Tooley, R. W. Hicks, Jr., P. C. Brown, Jr., Bernard O'Neill, John S. Armstrong, Jr., E. L. Pemberton, Jr. Fayetteville, "Pap" Harris, of Raleigh.

The Sigma Nu is now one of the strongest fraternities represented in the college life of the city and it is rapidly growing.

CONVENTION MEETS TODAY.

Senatorial Delegates to Gather For Purpose of Nominating Senator.

The delegates of New Hanover and Brunswick to the Senatorial Convention will assemble at the Court House today at noon for the purpose of confirming the nomination of Brooke G. Empe, Esq., of this city for the Senate, in accordance with the will of the voters as expressed in the primaries held recently.

It is generally believed that the convention will confirm the nomination of Mr. Empe without mentioning another name in connection with the office. A call for the convention was issued several days ago by the Executive Committee, composed of Mr. John J. Furlong, of this city, and Mr. Howard C. Curtis, of Southport.

The delegation of New Hanover will be slightly larger than that of Brunswick county and is composed of the following: J. F. Garrell, L. Stein, J. M. Solky, Page Anderson, F. W. Bonitz, H. L. Vollers, J. R. Turrentine, Jr., M. W. Divine, Van Hardin, B. Solomon, C. W. Polvogt, G. W. Cresnut, Benj. Bell, Jr., L. T. Moore, W. H. McEachern, A. G. Ricard, T. W. Wood, G. W. Bornemann, J. O. Brown, J. O. Reilly, L. J. Merriman, W. L. West, S. J. Ellis, T. B. Carroll and T. E. Sprunt.

Cutter Sails Today

The United States Revenue Cutter Seminole, Captin J. H. Quinan, will sail today at noon for New York where she will be on the patrol for the Harvard-Yale yacht races soon to take place. It is expected that the ship will be away from her station for several weeks. Captain J. H. Quinan has just been granted a leave of absence and will leave probably today to sail for a trip abroad to join Mrs. Quinan in Paris. The Seminole will probably be in command of First Lieutenant B. F. Cameron, while on the special duty at New York.

Negro Picked Up by Officers.

William Jones, a negro about 40 years of age who lives on Red Cross street and who was reported missing, was picked up yesterday morning about 1 o'clock at the corner of Love's alley and Nixon street, and sent to the hospital by Officer J. S. Lane and Special Policeman Jones. Jones is either demented or has suffered a sun stroke. He is still at the hospital.

Pleasant Motor Party.

Mr. Herbert Houtt, of Wilmington, gave a "motor party" from Scott's Hill to Wrightsville Beach yesterday evening. In the party were Misses Edna and Florence Crane, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Edith Sidbury, Messrs. Kirby Sidbury, and Ashby L. Payne, of Scott's Hill. The party enjoyed a most delightful evening.

HAND AND GRAB REEL

Races Yesterday Afternoon on Firemen's Tournament Course Fast and Exciting.

SALISBURY AND SALEM

These Were Fastest on the Grounds Yesterday—Finals Today With Inter-State Events—Other News Notes.

The only feature of the Firemen's State and Inter-State tournament, which opened in this city Tuesday and will conclude today, were the hand and grab reel races, which took place on the regular course yesterday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock and concluding just before 5 o'clock.

There were seven entries for the hand reel race and six for the grab reel meet, both events having been closely contested and having provoked much enthusiasm among the large number of spectators, who lined the course and sat in the grandstand. In the hand reel races Southside of Salisbury was the winner, carrying as the rules require three sections of hose, running 150 yards and showing water in 25 seconds. Salem was second in 26 seconds and Chapel Hill was third with a record of 26 3-5 seconds. Both the Independents of Monroe and the Monroe teams made splendid time but failed with the nozzle after the runs had been made. Tarboro was fourth with 29 4-5 seconds and Graham fifth with 36 2-5 seconds.

The grab reel race was won by Salem in 17 3-5 seconds; Southside of Salisbury came second with 19 seconds; Chapel Hill third, 19 4-5 seconds; and Monroe No. 1 fourth with 20 1-5 seconds. The Independents of Monroe again made a fine run but lost at the hydrant having blown off from the coupling at the hydrant. Graham did not enter the grab reel races. Tarboro made a splendid run but the nozzle blew off and the team was ruled out.

The judges of the horse hose wagon races of Wednesday met yesterday morning at the Central Fire Station on Fourth street and heard the protest against Newbern, which lowered the world's record with 22 seconds on the day before. The protest was on the ground that Newbern's hose was not clear when the race was made and this was sustained by thirteen of the fourteen judges and the first money was given to Goldsboro Eclipse, which has held the record for several years. For second and third places respectively, Rocky Mount and Capital Hose Co., of Raleigh, will run the tie off today with the Inter-State events.

Today will be Inter-State Day and all the races that have been run the past two days will be run over again. Although no out of the State companies have entered, the Carolina firemen will have it out between themselves and one of the most interesting days yet will be enjoyed by the fire ladders and their friends. The events will open at 9 A. M. with the hand reel races and at 2 P. M. the horse hose wagon races will be pulled off. These races will be the most hotly contested of the tournament, establishing as they will the record for Inter-State events and a large crowd should see them. It is hoped that the police will be able to keep the race course clear in order that the races may all be concluded in time for those who wish to do so to attend the baseball game at League Park. Cars may be taken at Sixth and Nun streets, connecting with cars for the Park at Ninth and Princess.

Fighting the Flames.

The spectacular production, "Fighting the Flames," on Market street last night was attended by a large crowd and the exhibition was pronounced even better than on the night previous. All arrangements were carried out perfectly and the scene was one indeed realistic and thrilling. The leap into the fire net from the burning building and the heroic rescue of a woman from the ledge of a window way up above the audience compelled the attention and applause of the audience. The show will be even better tonight than last evening. The grandstand seats have been reduced to 25 cents and this is the only charge for witnessing the big production.

The Merry, Merry Carnival.

It is an altogether another city out at the Johnny Jones Carnival Grounds at 13th and Market streets. Yesterday afternoon and last night the merry midway was crowded with a good-natured, eager throng of pleasure seekers, who seemed to be getting all there is out of life. At 8:30 o'clock the War King ascended his throne and for more than three hours there was a pitched battle on the grounds in which the swish of confetti and the voice of the squeak arose above all else. One thousand bags of the bits of colored paper, harmless and pretty, were given away to ladies and the male persuasion had to buy and throw in self-defense. The race was not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, for the ladies carried everything before them and everybody went away with no unpleasant feeling over the merry-making. The Leap the Gap, a big free attraction, is situated on Market street and this death-defying plunge is by Cyclone. The Broadwicks, aeronauts, are also making a balloon ascension

EX-CONVICT IS ARRESTED

Identified by Sheriff Richardson, Young Man is Carried Back to Columbus County to Serve Term For Robbery.

Alleged to have escaped from the county roads of Columbus county over five years ago, a young white man, J. B. Coleman, was arrested at the carnival grounds, corner of 13th and Market street, Tuesday night and yesterday morning was identified by Sheriff Richardson and carried back to Whiteville to serve the remainder of a three-year sentence imposed upon him for robbery.

From what can be learned Coleman has been living in Wilmington for several years, and during recent months has been employed by the Tidewater Power Company as a conductor. From what has further been ascertained it seems that Coleman was charged with robbery some seven years ago, and after the case had been pending for some time, he was tried and convicted and sentenced to serve three years on the public roads of Columbus county.

He was recognized by a person that knew him when he lived in Columbus, here last week, and this individual reported the matter to Policeman I. F. Huggins, who soon afterwards arrested Coleman and landed him in jail for safe keeping. He bitterly denied any knowledge of the case, when placed under arrest and vehemently declared that the wrong man was being held under suspicion.

Sheriff Richardson was notified of the arrest and immediately came to Wilmington to look into the matter, arriving here yesterday morning. When Coleman discovered that Sheriff Richardson was in the city, he was aware that he would be recognized and he admitted to the police that he was the party wanted, but declared that he paid the guard on the county roads of Columbus fifty dollars to let him escape and that the latter promised him if he would stay out of the reach of the authorities for three years that there would be no fear of his being brought back to serve out his sentence.

The sheriff places little confidence in his story. Before Sheriff Richardson arrived Coleman's mother also protested to the police her son's innocence and made a pitiful plea for his release, but the only consolation given her by the police was that she must await the coming of the sheriff, and he would be immediately given his freedom if he was discovered to be the wrong man.

It is assumed from the length of time he served, that he has been living in this city for about two years, residing with his mother, at Hilton, in the northern part of the city. The standing reward of $25 for his capture will be received by Officer Huggins.

VISITOR CAUSED TROUBLE

Declined to Submit To Arrest and Abused Officer Roudly.

J. B. Bryan, of Newbern, who has been attending the Firemen's Tournament, caused considerable disorder on Princess street Wednesday afternoon and when Officer Newton attempted to arrest him, he absolutely refused to go and abused the officer in a scandalous manner. This created much commotion and within a short time a large crowd congregated. He continued to curse boisterously and Officer Newton called for assistance and soon had several other officers on the scene. After a struggle they managed to put him in the patrol wagon, and he remained in the guard house to await trial.

He was brought before Mayor Springer yesterday morning, and on the charge of resisting an officer was placed under a bond of $50, which he was unable to give and went to jail where he has thus far been held. On the second charge of disorderly conduct he was fined $10 and the cost. He is communicating with friends at Newbern with a view of giving the bond.

Evangelist Kelly's Meeting.

The revival in progress this week at the Advent Christian Church has attracted good sized congregations and much good has been accomplished through the sermons of Evangelist Kelly, who is a forceful and consecrated speaker. He has agreed to remain here throughout the next week and it is expected that he will be greeted by large congregations each night as much interest is being manifested.

and a parachute descent as a special free attraction. Vittuci's Royal Italian Band is discoursing splendid music and is one of the attractions down town with the open air concerts which are given afternoon and evening.

The various paid attractions are declared to be well worth the price of admission, clean and wholesome. The Red Men of the city are scoring a big success with the pow-wow and are seeing to it that nothing objectionable enters into the show. The carnival will continue through Saturday night.

Behold how the mighty have fallen!

With the phenomenal record of seven straight games won since the opening of the League season, the Wilson Champions dropped their first defeat into the hands of the Wilmington Sailors yesterday afternoon at the new League park before over fourteen hundred people; score five to nothing.

The Sailors jumped on Lane, for the visitors, in the very first inning and when the Fire Department was finally called out to put an end to the pyrotechnics of the Sailor boys, the official score showed that two nice doubles and three clean singles after one man was down, had combined with a bad throw by Holt to second with no one to cover the bag, to net four runs. Then again in the sixth, after Doak had popped out to second, Rath got an infield hit and stole second and after Hoey had gone out to short, Carnel drove a nice one into right field and brought in the fifth run.

The game was fast and exciting throughout. Bussey was very steady and pitched a magnificent game. The same was true of Lane, after the first inning, but he yielded, all told ten many hits and those with the two errors of the Tobaccoists contributed to the complete shut-out. Wilmington's new men showed up exceedingly well and the team has now the solid support and the unbounded confidence of the Wilmington public. The attendance yesterday would have been larger but for the delay on account of the street car wreck at Ninth and Princess and the fact that the firemen's tournament races were not concluded in another part of the city before 5 o'clock. The street car service was "rocky" on account of of the wreck but the crowds will no doubt be handled much better today.

The Game in Detail.

First Inning—Wilson was first up and Guerrant was out, second to first; Moore fanned, but cold shivers ran through the grandstand and bleachers when Mills came up and smashed out a three-base hit to left. Bussey pulled himself out of a nice hole by fanning Turner. Jayes was first up for Wilmington and fanned; Flynn, one of the new men, started the fireworks with a single to right; Kite duplicated the order and Capt. Smith wielded the stick to left field for two bases, scoring Flynn and Kite and the fourteen hundred people in the grandstand went wild with excitement. Doak, another of the new men, hit to deep left, for two bases, scoring Smith and the pandemonium continued. Rath, a third of the new men, hit safely to the infield on difficult choice to pitcher; Rath stole second and on Holt's throw there was no one to cover the base and Doak scored. Rath was safe on second and stole third; Hoey was out, fly to short; Carnel flew out to centre, the inning netting four runs and five hits, two of them doubles.

Second Inning—Miller out, second to first; Holt flew out to second; Hogg

NEWBORN'S CURFEW FOR MEN.

Every now and then some newspaper comes out in advocacy of a curfew law requiring children to be off the streets after certain hours in the night and in several of the towns of the State the municipal authorities have from time to time adopted such ordinance, and sporadic efforts are made to enforce it; but as a rule, such law soon drops into innocuous, or perhaps we should say noxious desuetude.

Notwithstanding the general knowledge that this law is so hard to be enforced as to children the Newbern Journal comes out in advocacy of a curfew law to be made to apply to grown men as well as to children. It suggests that all places of business, even cafes and lunch counters be closed at nine o'clock at night. And it further says: "Why not make a curfew law and require everybody, the 'grown up boys' included, to go home and go to bed unless they have a special permit to be abroad." Now it might do to require the "grown up boys" to be in their homes by 9 o'clock. It may be that the "grown up boys" of Newbern are of such a character that it is not safe for them or for the general public for them to be allowed to run at large after 9 o'clock, but we do not think they should be required to go to bed at such an early hour, especially at this time of the year when that hour comes so early in the evening. That is too great punishment for the "grown up boys" of that city. We cannot bring our mind to the conviction that they are so bad as to deserve this extreme punishment. Why, in some households some of them no doubt would have to go to bed without their suppers, and every kid who has suffered that punishment knows that a spanking with a shingle, from the ordinary kid's view point, is preferable.

THE FEAR OF BRYAN.

The Washington Post seems to think that if Mr. Bryan is the Democratic nominee the chief issue of the campaign will be the fear of another panic. It thinks that such fear will have much to do with the success of the Republican candidate. Party lines, it says, are not very strong in the face of hunger. The Post then goes on to say editorially:

"Whatever the objections to the Republican candidate or the Republican policies may be, they will be overcome by the still stronger objection to hard times. The country has just worked its way through the pinch of a panic and is not yet running in full blast. It remembers only too keenly how the panic swooped down and wiped out values, fortunes, contracts, and ambitious plans. The suddenness of the panic, and the apparent ease with which it made headway against ten years of accumulated prosperity gave the country a shock that it will not soon forget.

"Mr. Bryan is a pessimist, and the burden of his preaching is woe. The uncertainty of his mental makeup, the changeable ideas he puts forth on questions affecting national prosperity, and the character of the men who would act as his counselors, all tend to frighten every man who depends upon general good times for his personal prosperity. No one knows—not even Mr. Bryan himself—just what the National administration would do if Mr. Bryan were President. Speculation has the boundless continent to roam in, whenever the imagination puts Mr. Bryan in the White House. There is nothing to start from as a basis of estimating his action. Would he imitate Roosevelt in strenuous effort to push his policies through Congress? And if so, would he make the government ownership of railroads one of them? Who can say he would not? Would he urge the guaranty of bank deposits, thereby enabling dishonest bankers to draw in a lot of money and default, leaving honest bankers to shoulder the loss? Mr. Bryan would surely do this, unless he should change his mind after being elected President.

"The fear of Bryan and Bryanism promises to be one of the strongest influences in the campaign. It elected McKinley in 1896, and gave him easy victory over Bryan in 1900. That fear is as real now as ever, if not greater and more potent. The recent panic acts as a stern reminder that hard times and panic can occur in the midst of plenty. The hard-headed, ordinary citizen, who earns what he eats and must have what he earns, will not vote for any vagaries or experiments. He wants stability and good sense to handle the National ark."

A SURE MAD WOMAN.

There was one mad woman in Colorado when the Democratic convention of that State met. She was Mrs. Ruth Bryan-Leavitt, the daughter of Colonel William Jennings Bryan. She had been appointed a delegate to the convention; but, being unable to attend, she gave her proxy to a Mrs. Lafferty, who was present and took part in the proceedings. The trouble is, though, that Mrs. Ruth Bryan-Leavitt, the daughter, and, of course, staunch supporter of the Peerless gentleman from Nebraska, made a grave mistake in the selection of her substitute and gave her proxy to a fellow citizeness, who belonged to the anti-Bryan faction in the State, and who went to the convention and fought hard against instructions for the father of the delegate whose proxy she held. That was the quintessence of ingratitude. No one can blame Mrs. Ruth Bryan-Leavitt for being furious at the conduct of the lady in whom she reposed such confidence and being mortified at the manner in which she had been taken in by this wily female politician. But then, women are new in politics yet and they have to learn. Now, had it been a stupid man who gave away his seat in the convention, his stupidity would have suggested to him that before making the assignment of his credentials he should ascertain whether the party was on his side of the fence in the Bryan and anti-Bryan contest. But the female politicians will learn by experience after awhile. If Mrs. Ruth Bryan-Leavitt is a delegate to the Democratic convention of 1912 she will hardly give her proxy to another woman without first being sure the latter is a staunch Bryan woman.

It took the Wilmington boys to put the quietus on Wilson's extra run of success on the diamond. The Sailors did good work yesterday. They won a glorious victory and the Wilmington people are proud of them. The base ball cranks had the time of their lives yesterday.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—Louisiana postpones taking the water cure by a narrow margin, the vote against a State-wide prohibition referendum being "indefinitely postponed" by a vote of 53 to 47. Two years ago it was not supposed such a measure could get a hearing in Louisiana. Next time Louisiana will get on the water wagon.—News and Observer.

—Some very exaggerated stories have been circulated as to the amount of money Ashley Horne has spent in his Mecklenburg campaign. It is true he paid for work done—as did the other candidates—he paid regular rates for what advertising he placed in the papers, but he did not buy one vote. What money he put out was for legitimate campaign expenses. Kitchen and Craig did the same and they spent as much money as Horne did—maybe more.—Charlotte Chronicle.

—Referring to Monday night's mud battle in Charlotte, The Concord Tribune says: "We cannot see how either Mr. Craig or Mr. Kitchen gained nor how Mr. Horne lost. The meeting was not so momentous as one might have expected. We would say that neither gained nor lost and the State convention will not be affected by Monday night's debate." That looks to us like carrying water on three shoulders, but Editor Hurley had not heard of the Mecklenburg primaries at the time he was trying to get the acetylene in his headlight to working properly. In his paper today, he may be able to get a better focus on the canvas.—Charlotte Chronicle.

—The disbarment of I. N. Ebbs, a Madison county lawyer, at Asheville last week is a rare occurrence in North Carolina. Ebbs, according to the evidence, had been convicted of fraud and had served a term in jail. If some of the lawyers are to be believed, there is more than one attorney in North Carolina who would hardly escape jail if justice were meted out to him, and the fact that so many of them escape is due to the sufferance of their legal brethren, who are not disposed to prosecute them. Now that the ball has been started if all the black sheep in the legal profession are brought to law it will be a credit to an honorable profession and a protection to the public. Should this be done we might be compelled to admit that "a possum dog will eat a possum" and that one man has not been made a scapegoat because he is without friends or influence.—Statesville Landmark.

—The National Prohibition party declares that it expects nothing from Mr. Bryan, as he is on record as opposed to prohibition and stumped the State of Nebraska against it in 1896. Mr. Bryan's stand on the liquor question is highly commendable and sane. He goes as far as anybody can go who recognizes the Democratic principles of personal liberty and home rule. Beyond this, neither threats nor persuasion can carry him, although he might gain votes by deciding to ride the prohibition wave. For his courageous stand in this matter we gladly accord him credit. As was shown by a statement reproduced on this page a few days ago, Mr. Bryan is in favor of the sale of liquor in a town or county when the voters of that town or county indicate at the polls that they wish liquor sold. He is opposed to State prohibition, which violate home rule and personal rights. As to his own habits, he never touches alcoholic beverages. He is a prohibitionist with regard to himself, but not with regard to other people. His idea is the just and sound one, and the only one that will stand the test of time.—Norfolk Landmark.

—Because the public having wearied with good reason of that school of politics which seeks to tear down things on general principles, the term "conservative" is now made a laudatory expression in much the same blanket fashion as "Jeffersonian." And just as people who believe in doing things which Jefferson regarded with absolute horror call themselves "Jeffersonian Democrats" so wild men, off the rampage at present but ready to go on again instantly when opportunity for the gratification of their natural inclinations next offers itself, are now called "conservative." Long-established wrestling of a term in one case is temporarily paralleled in the other. Those wild men who, for lack of votes, did not actually succeed in smashing anything are now, of course, without having retracted any destructive preaching or given the least evidence of changed hearts, conspicuously shining "conservatives." Momentary good behavior from simple necessity is sufficient to bring any late rampager under the but recently contemned appellation. Some who will not of their own motion adopt this temporarily serviceable device are being labeled with it by their followers. And precisely hereby hangs the cause of our bringing forward the subject; for a certain protest urgently needs to be made in behalf of the Democratic party. It seems almost incredible but the fact is that a number of the over-zealous have lately stuck "conservative" labels upon Mr. Bryan himself. Almost all of those doing this, so far as our observation goes, are themselves "conservatives" by temporarily adopted labels only and are labeling Mr. Bryan likewise simply for what they deem his and their political benefit.—Charlotte Observer.

—Newbern Sun: Chief of Police J. N. Rouse, of Dover, N. C., brought to Newbern this morning on a stretcher a fugitive from justice, Henry Williams, who was wanted in Newbern for the cutting of another negro, Enoch Jones, several weeks ago. When the chief arrested the desperate criminal, called "man eater," he put up a stiff fight and attempted to make his escape. In order to hold his prisoner the officer shot him in the head, which stopped the resisting man. Dr. Pollock, of Dover, was called and extracted the bullet. Williams was brought to Newbern and placed in Stewart's Sanitarium. He is seriously wounded but not considered fatally.

The civil service commission has announced as a result of a careful investigation by one of its accredited representatives of a public list of some 70 Federal office holders who were delegates to the administration Republican convention recently held at Birmingham, Ala., that no person in the competitive classified service took any part in the convention.

Death Was On His Heels. Jesse P. Morris, of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It helped me immediately, and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for cough and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at R. R. Bellamy's drug store, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

BELLE VIRGINIA

BLENDED RYE

Belle of Virginia Rye deserves its name, and the name is certainly one of distinction and old-time aristocracy. It's a whiskey we are proud of on account of its purity and high quality and its hosts of admiring friends who will drink nothing else. Belle of Virginia is a blend—a scientific, uniform blend of pure, old goods. It's a whiskey with a flavor, and a fine, invigorating after-effect long to be remembered by those who drink it. Try it and you will make no mistake.

Your Stomach Is Your Friend

If you have a good stomach and wish to keep it, steer clear of lard-cooked food. Lard is made from hog fat, and is more apt to be impure than it is to be clean and healthful.

Cottolene is the most reliable frying and shortening medium. It is a pure, wholesome, digestible product, that is bound to be more satisfactory than lard wherever it is given a fair test.

Besides being more healthful, Cottolene is more economical than lard or cooking butter, one-third less being required. It will, moreover, make more nutritious food than either lard or butter.

With all these advantages on the side of Cottolene, what argument have you for not using it? Your own grocer, if he is progressive, has Cottolene for sale. Buy a pail to-day, use it according to directions, and we warrant you will never go back to the lard habit.

The Ex-Convict.

[Original.]
I was walking one morning in the country near the bank of a river when a young man of twenty-two or twenty-three rose out of some bushes. He was dressed in convict stripes.

"Say, mister," he said, pleading with his eyes as well as his voice, "won't you help me? I've served three years for a crime I didn't commit. Some young fellows I fell in with told me one night that they were going to 'crack a crib.' I asked them what that meant. They laughed at me and told me they'd show me. On my word, I didn't know what they were going to do. They started to break into a house and were nabbed before I had time to get away. I was taken with them, convicted and sent up for ten years."

If ever there was truth written in a man's face it was in this man's. I am one who believes that there are many convictions of innocent persons, and I resolved to help him. At my instance he took off his stripes, tied a stone to them, then sank them in the river. Then he jumped in the water, came out at once, and I lent him as much of my clothing as I could spare. At a house near by he told the story that he was bathing and a tramp had stolen his clothes. We readily obtained more clothing, and, going on to a stable, I hired a closed vehicle, and we were driven to a railway station eighteen miles away. There I parted with my man, first giving him what money I had in my pocket, my name and address and asking him to communicate with me.

He did so for eight years. I sent him enough money to start a newspaper stand, at which he was successful. To the sale of papers he added other articles, gradually increasing his stock till he had quite a flourishing store under the name of Nathan Ryder. Falling in with a young woman of thrifty habits, he married her, first telling her his story. Several rosy cheeked children came to the pair, and there was a happy home. True, a sword hung over them all, but the children were ignorant of it, and after years had passed and the secret was not divulged the father and mother began to think that they were immune.

One day a man came into the store and asked for some tobacco. Looking up from the case, he fixed his gaze on Ryder.

"Hello, mate!" he exclaimed.
Ryder turned pale.
"You're the man that escaped way back when I'd served two years of my time. I'm Hardy. I had the next cell to yours."
The secret was out. The man who had told it, seeing Ryder's prosperity, resolved to take advantage of it and asked for money. Ryder refused to be blackmailed, but offered to help the ex-convict, who had served his term, to make an honest living. The offer was declined. There is a reward for information that will lead to the capture of an escaped prisoner, and Hardy threatened to inform and secure it. Ryder asked for time, telling Hardy to come to see him the next day. Then he went home, put his arms about his wife and told her that the sword had fallen.

Thriftiness brings self control, and self control brings the habit of thrashing out important questions as they arise. Ryder and his wife talked late into the night of this the most important problem of their lives. Should they permit their savings to pass to the rascal who would bleed them? Should they live continually under the harrow, with a prospect of the secret being divulged to the authorities in the end despite all they could do? Seven years of the sentence were yet to be served. Could the wife keep the family in condition for so long a time? Before the couple retired for the night they had decided. Hardy was to be permitted to carry the information. But before they slept Ryder wrote me of the facts.

As soon as I received the letter I telegraphed Ryder to temporize with Hardy, and I at once took a train for Ryder's home. I found him and his wife together, the picture of despair. Meanwhile I had formed a plan by which I had a hope of lightening the blow. On receipt of my telegram Ryder had given Hardy $10, intimating that he might get more. My plan might require considerable time, and I advised him to put aside $100 to be doled out to the threatening informer only as necessary. This done, I pressed the couple warmly by the hand and departed for the state capital.

I told the story to the governor, concealing the name and residence of Ryder, much more fully than I can tell it in this limited space. He was much impressed, but could not see his way clear to act. Of course Ryder, having been duly convicted, must be treated as a criminal. He had committed a crime in escaping. A pardon would be to put a premium on this additional crime. However, the governor promised to take the matter under advisement. After a long interval I effected a compromise. Ryder was to return voluntarily to prison and be pardoned within three months. This would reveal Ryder's past and stamp him a convict, but it was the best I could do.

Ryder gave himself up and was pardoned in thirty days. The story, including my connection with the case and other details, was widely published, and the day he returned to his business he was the recipient of hundreds of congratulations. The sympathy excited resulted in a fortune to the ex-convict, for patronage flowed in voluminously.

The moral of this story is that by steady, honest purpose we may do much to ward off human injustice.

BUG DEATH

One of the great growers of seed potatoes in Maine who has made a life study of Irish potato, has demonstrated beyond question that it is impossible to apply Paris Green to potato vines in any quantity without weakening the vitality of the tuber. Bug Death will not injure the plant but will stimulate its growth. It will not wash off, it is perfectly harmless to animals and people, and has a wonderful power to prevent blight, rust and those diseases so generally prevalent among melons and vegetables.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

—Mr. J. F. Miller, of Asheville, was a guest at the Orton yesterday.

—Mr. Wade Wishart, of Lumberton is in Wilmington a few days.

—Mr. Franklin S. Clark, of Fayetteville, spent yesterday in the city.

—Mr. R. M. Phillips, editor of the Newbern Sun, is spending a few days in Wilmington and at the seashore.

—Mr. W. R. Honeycutt, contractor and builder, of Wadesboro, is at Wrightsville Beach for a few days.

—Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Barden, of Monroe, are the guests of Mrs. E. F.
Johnson.

—Miss Edith Pou, of Raleigh, is the attractive guest of her cousin, Miss Annie Worth, at her Summer home on Greenville Sound.

—Mrs. H. R. Mason and sister, Miss Florence Phillips, of Goldsboro, are in the city, the guests of friends and relatives.

—Mr. and Mrs. B. Treadaway and children and Miss Effie Treadaway, of Wadesboro, are spending a few days at Wrightsville Beach.

—Miss Chatterne Mitchell, of Atlanta, a gifted elocutionist, is here to spend some time the guest of Mrs.
Curtiss-Arnall North.

—The many friends of Mr. H. D.
Burkheimer, of Charlotte, are pleased to welcome him in the city. He is down for the firemen's tournament.

—Mayor Paul Jones, of Tarboro, accompanies the Fire Department of his city to Wilmington for the tournament and has been shown many courtesies while here.

—Dr. Chas. P. Bolles, Jr., has returned from Winston-Salem where he attended the meeting of the North Carolina Medical Society and will at once take up the practice of his profession in this city again.

—Miss Elizabeth D. Burtt, one of Wilmington's most gifted musicians, left last evening for Boston to attend the commencement exercises of der the teaching of the famous pianist, Raphael Joseff.

—Commander Robert Platt, retired, United Coast Survey, arrived yesterday morning from Washington and will spend some time here and at Southport, where he was born. Commander Platt has been engaged in coast survey work from Maine to Mexico and is probably better posted than any man living on this important branch of the government service.

State Convention Delegates.

The delegates, named by Mayor Springer, chairman of the County Convention, to attend the State Convention and will be unable to go, are requested to notify him at once. There are only a few days left in which to decide, and it was the understanding when the delegates were announced that all that could not attend would advise him several days before the time for the convention, which will be held in Charlotte next week. The Seaboard Air Line will operate special cars on both trains Tuesday for the accommodation of those who desire to attend from New Hanover and adjoining counties.

Charged With Pocket Picking.

Upon complaint of J. W. Padlock, a white man giving his address as Monroe, N. C. Lottie N'xon, a negress, was arrested on the carnival grounds early last night, charged with the larceny of between $8 and $10 from the pockets of the stranger. Mr.
Padlock introduced a young man, who accompanied him and who testifies that he saw the woman in the crowd run her hand into the young man's pocket and abstract the money. The negress will be given a hearing before the Mayor at noon today.

Congratulations From Abroad.

The happy wedding anniversary of Justice and Mrs. G. W. Bornemann, which was an event of interest Wednesday night was also of interest outside the city. They were the recipients of a cablegram from Mr. J. G. L.
Gieschen and family, of this city, who are at present on their way to Germany. The message tendered them happy congratulations and stated that they were sorry they could not be in attendance upon their anniversary celebration.

Firemen's Ball at Carolina.

Another enjoyable feature of the tournament was the firemen's ball last evening at Carolina Beach, which was attended by about 25 couples. The dancing began at 8 o'clock and lasted until a late hour, the music being furnished by Russell's orchestra. The steamer Wilmington made several special trips to the beach yesterday in order to convey those who desired to spend an outing at this pleasant resort.

LOCAL DOTS.

—The British steamer Dunkeld, Capt. Baker, cleared yesterday for Liverpool with a cargo of cotton from Messrs. Alexander Sprunt & Son. The cargo consisted of 10,173 bales, valued at $665,000.
—One of the largest property deals recorded this week is the transfer from Mr. C. C. Chadbourn to Miss Hattie A. Heyer, six houses and lot situated on Third and Davis streets. The purchase price was $5,250, the deal having been made through the real estate agency of J. G. Wright & Son.

PRETTY JUNE SOCIABLE.

Dance Was Given in Honor of Visiting Guests—The Couples.
(Special Star Correspondence.)

Scott's Hill, N. C., June 18.—The young men of this vicinity gave a dance last evening at Mrs. R. K. Bryan's beautiful home. It was given in honor of Misses Edna and Florence Crane, of Brooklyn, N. Y.
Dancing was indulged in from 9 to 1 o'clock and it was a most enjoyable occasion. At a late hour delightful refreshments were served and marked the close of one of the prettiest sociables of the season.

Those present were Misses Edna and Florence Crane, Edith Sidbury, Gertrude and Mary Bryan, Elsie Payne, Nettie Sidbury, Bessie and Nora Harrell, Misses Nixon and Mrs.
Jones, of Topsail, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs.
J. A. Payne, Jr., Miss Lucy Alexander, Miss Sessom, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Foy, Mr. Herbert Hocutt, of Wilmington; Mr.
Frank Foy, of Winston-Salem; Mes-

Taylor, Robert Walton, Leslie Myers, Leslie Foy, Roderick, Buren and Kirby Sidbury, Willie Alexander, Shepard Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Sidbury and Messrs. Verlinza and Jasper Sid-bury.

The jovial crowd adjourned at 1:30 o'clock, each declaring it the most enjoyable occasion ever experienced in our town. Music for the dance was furnished by Prof. G. W. Breeden, of Virginia.

Tug Blanche, towed in to Southport and beached on Battery Island Shoal yesterday morning. The crew report having experienced heavy northwest gales and heavy seas, attributing this as the cause of the distress. The vessel sprung a leak and in spite of the persistent work at the pumps the vessel became water-logged and was picked up off Cape Fear bar by the tug.

The schooner was towed in to Southport at high tide, where she will remain in port until the necessary repairs are made. It will be impossible to ascertain the amount of damage until later.

Member of Lumina Orchestra Had Narrow Escape Yesterday.

Mr. Frank Pfeiffer, drummer with Kneisel's Orchestra at Lumina, had a narrow escape from drowning while bathing in the surf with a number of other members of the orchestra just off the pavilion early yesterday afternoon. Mr. Pfeiffer was diving from the hands of two of his companions, who would spring him head foremost over into the surf and in taking one of these leaps his head struck bottom and he became unconscious, falling to rise within a reasonable time, one of the friends of the young man got hold of the lifeless form until Life Saver Jas. Lamano went out to his assistance and with Mr. Freeman Yopp brought him ashore. Mr. Pfeiffer was finally brought around all right but he had an exceedingly close call.

Trainmen Won the Strike.

The local organization of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen has been advised that the trainmen have won their strike with the N. C. & St. L.
Railroad Company. The advice is that the railway agrees to recognize the union and that the conductors and engineers stood pat with the trainmen. Vice Grand Master Val Fitz Patrick, of the Brotherhood, the Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Vice President of the Order of Railway Conductors met the General Manager of the railroad and settled the matter satisfactorily. About 250 trainmen who were out will return to their work, and all hands will be on the best of terms in the future.

first. Wilmington; Kite singled to centre, but Doak and Smith fell victims to the wiles of Wilson's twirler at the plate, and Rath was out, second to first.

Fourth Inning—Mills out, pitcher to first on a pretty stop by Bussey; Turner flew out to centre; Miller out second to first. Wilmington; Hoey got a beautiful hit over second and Kite took the base for him; Carneal sacrificed; Bussey was safe on fielder's choice; Hoey out, short to third; Jayes out, pitcher to first.

Fifth Inning—Holt out first base;
Hogg out, pitcher to first; Hill fanned.
Wilmington; Flynn out, hit by batted ball; Kite fanned and Smith was out to first.

Sixth Inning—The sixth inning looked dark for Wilmington when Lane first up for Wilson smashed out a twobase hit to right; Guerrant flew out to second and Moore ballooned to short; Mills flew out to left field, who made a beautiful running catch. Wilmington:
In this spasm the Sailors still further clinched the game. Doak flew out to second; Rath got an infield hit and stole second; Hoey flew out to short but Carneal put a nice one over in right garden and Rath came home; Bussey hit to short, who retired Carneal at second.

Seventh Inning—Turner out short to first; Home Run Miller fanned; Capt. Holt flew out to left. Wilmington; Jayes out, short to first; Flynn out to first; Kite safe on error of short, who made bad throw to first;
Smith flew out on long fly to left.

Eighth Inning—Hogg made a clean hit over second; Hill popped out to catcher; Lane flew out to short; Guerrant fanned. Wilmington; Doak hit through third; Rath fanned; Hoey up and Doak thrown out stealing second; Hoey fanned.

Ninth Inning—Moore flew out to centre; Mills fouled out to Bussey; Turner fanned. Wilmington found it unnecessary to take her final turn with the willow and the game ended with a shout that was heard at the Sound.

Strikes and Balls.

Our Sailor Men had an anchor to windward.
The clever captain of the visitors lost his Holt yesterday.

It is safe to expect a close and more exciting game today.

Another great crowd may be expected for the game this afternoon.

Wilson had won seven straight but had to give up when it came to eight.
It was a tight squeeze in the grandstand, but the boys didn't mind that, you bet.

It's a long lane that has no turning. Wilson reached the turn at the eight-mile post.

VISITING UNDERTAKERS OUTING

Delegates to the Convention Have Pleasant Fishing Trip.

The three days' sessions of the Funeral Directors and Embalmers, at Wrightsville Beach, ended yesterday morning, with a short meeting which convened at 10 o'clock and was in progress shortly more than an hour.
This last gathering was attended by some fifteen of the delegates and was for the purpose of disposing of unfinished business, however, there was little of any consequence to be transacted and the time was consumed in holding a quiz class. President Hardee, of Henderson, and a number of the delegates from various places throughout the State, left for their homes last night.

A very happy and rare pleasure was tendered to a number of the delegates and visitors yesterday, by way of a fishing outing to the "Rocks" down the Cape Fear. The party went down at an early hour yesterday morning and came back to Wilmington about 6 o'clock in the afternoon. They had splendid luck fishing for sheephead and spent a most delightful time.
Those who composed the party were:
Messrs. James Miller, of Atlanta; Ed Carlisle, of Springfield; O. W. Yelverton, of Fremont; John H. Hyatt, of Tarboro; J. W. Shuff, of Cincinnati, and Walter E. Yopp, of Wilmington.

UGLY STREET CAR WRECK.

Suburban and Trailer Put Out of Commission at Ninth and Princess.

Suburban Trolley Car No. 41, drawing a trailer and both crowded with passengers including ladies and gentlemen, on their way out to the baseball grounds, was badly wrecked at the switch at Ninth and Princess streets at 4:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The car was in charge of Motorman J. C. Long and Conductors Norris and Gaster. In crossing the tracks bound out, the rear truck of the heavy suburban car split the switch and took the city line carrying the trailer with it and bumping the rear of the suburban car heavily into City Car No. 12, which was standing near waiting for the line to be cleared. The rear trucks of the suburban were torn apart, the rear vestibule of the same car was smashed in and the front vestibule of the city car was partly stove in.

There was much excitement among the passengers and it is a miracle that no one was hurt. The line was blocked to traffic both on the city, and beach and baseball lines until after 6 o'clock. It was the same kind of accident that occurred about two years ago when Conductor Reese, standing by after changing the switch, was struck and had both legs broken.
The car will be in the shops for several days.

KILLED HER HUSBAND

Horrible Deed by a Woman Who Also Takes Her Own Life.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)
Little Falls, N. Y., June 18.—Martin Finn, a farmer, was instantly killed by his wife, Elizabeth, as he lay asleep in his home in Salisbury, N. Y., early today. Mrs. Finn walked to the home of her mother, a mile distant, where she drank Paris Green and chloroform. She probably will die.
Mrs. Finn used an axe to kill her husband, striking him a terrible blow on the head as he lay in bed. When she reached her mother's home she told her mother what she had done, and announced her intention of committing suicide. Mrs. Finn is 42 years old and her husband was 45. Mr.
Finn had taken steps toward securing a divorce from his wife.

and three children who lost their lives in the destruction of the Gun-ness farm house, April 16, were sent to Chicago Wednesday in charge of Frank L. Cutler, and will be buried in Forest home cemetery.

Interested Parties Receiving the Returns—Mrs. Taft One of the Most Anxious Persons Present. Secretary's Advisor.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Washington, June 18.—"Words do not find themselves at a time like this. I do not deny that I am very happy." This was the response of Secretary William H. Taft to a request for an expression of his views of his nomination for the Presidency. The sentences did not come easily. Throughout the afternoon preceding the announcement of the nomination, the secretary had been laboring under suppressed nervous tension. The atmosphere of his office was electric with excitement.

Throughout the afternoon his private office and the office of his private secretary, Mr. Frederick Carpenter, were thronged with members of his family, intimate personal and official friends and newspaper men.

Shortly before 12 o'clock Mrs. Taft arrived at the War Department. She scanned carefully the bulletins which had been received from the convention and distinctly manifested her pleasure at the result of the action of the convention regarding the platform. She is a close and accurate observer of things political and is one of the best advisers the secretary has had throughout the preliminary campaign for the Presidential nomination.

Mrs. Taft remained in the secretary's private office throughout the afternoon. She was attired in a becoming suit of pure white and wore a big picture hat of pea green straw adorned with seal brown and pale green ostrich plumes. Accompanying her was the young son of the Secretary and Mrs. Taft—little Charlie, whose special function it was to carry the bulletins received from the convention from the telegraph operator to the Secretary's desk. He was the busiest person in the War Department. While awaiting the coming of the bulletins he stood at the desk of the telegraph operator listening anxiously at the fateful ticking of the instrument. As each bulletin came from the operator's typewriter he scanned it quickly and rushed with it into his father's office. It was to Mrs. Taft ordinarily that he presented the bulletins rather than to Secretary Taft and he listened while his mama read the bulletins to the secretary's assembled guests.

Shortly after 4 o'clock—before the nominating speeches of the presidential candidates had been concluded—Miss Helen Heron Taft, the Secretary's daughter, joined the group in Mr. Taft's private office. The secretary laughingly explained that she probably would have been there sooner if she had not been too nervous to withstand the strain. Miss Taft was inclined to resent this comment, but it was apparent that she was infected with "nerves" as were all others in the office.

One of the bulletins received from the convention indicated that a speaker while nominating a candidate had been greeted with jeers. When Secretary Taft read it he frowned. "I am compassionate," said he, looking out of a window of his office, "toward any one who goes through a nominating experience in a convention." The remark of the secretary was a side light on the man. He knew what it meant to pass through so grueling an experience as a campaign for a Presidential nomination.

Secretary Taft had arranged to visit the war college with Secretary Root at 5 o'clock but at the last moment he naturally concluded to await the result of the ballot which was about to be taken in Chicago. By this time the situation in the office of the Secretary had become tense. The door between the Secretary's private office and Secretary Carpenter's office was thrown wide. In the former stood Secretary Taft surrounded by members of his family and personal and political friends.

In the outer room, with Secretary Carpenter, were twenty-five or thirty Washington correspondents, each hanging on every word that came from the telegraph instrument.

As the balloting began in the convention the atmosphere of the two rooms seemed to be surcharged with excitement. Scarcely a word was spoken. Men who ordinarily are not affected by "nerves" hung over the telegraph instrument as if their lives depended upon the words which the stolid telegrapher was ticking out on his typewriter. Something went wrong with the official dispatches. The first announcement was that Massachusetts cast 32 votes for Taft. Then the announcement from Michigan was made with its one vote for Cannon. At this moment Secretary Carpenter's telephone jingled and William Pannell, Secretary Taft's personal messenger, received a flash from the Associated Press that Taft had been nominated.

Mrs. Taft rose from her seat at the Secretary's desk and turned to her husband who was standing at her right. It was an eloquent hand clasp they gave each other. Mrs. Taft was bubbling over with happiness. All evidence of the nervous strain which had been in her face during the entire afternoon had disappeared. The Secretary himself laughed with the joy of a boy. Around both the Secretary and Mrs. Taft their friends crowded to offer their congratulations. It was a happy scene—the realization of months of labor and tribulation.

Secretary Root was the first Cabinet officer to extend to Secretary Taft and Mrs. Taft his congratulations on the nomination. He remarked facetiously to Secretary Taft, while the latter was shaking hands with some of his newspaper friends, that he probably would find it difficult to "shake" these men either during his campaign or after his election. Secretary Taft responded that he had no idea of shaking them at any time.

Turning to Secretary Root after the informal reception, Secretary Taft inquired: "Shall we go now to the war college?"

"Yes," replied the secretary. "Let's go immediately."

Secretary Taft was already in his riding clothes and he and General Edwards made the trip to the war college on horse back while Secretary Root and General Bell, chief of staff went in an automobile. As he was leaving his office, the Secretary leaned over the desk of the telegraph operator and inquired tentatively: "I guess its certain enough?"

"Certain enough," said General Oliver, who was standing near. "You want it unanimous?"

An a moment later a flash came over the wire that the nomination had been made unanimous.

MR. BRYAN INTERESTED

In the Work of the Republican Convention—To State His Views. (By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Lincoln, Neb., June 18.—W. J. Bryan received news of the action of the Republican national convention at his Fair View home this afternoon and evening and evinced considerable interest in the result. Mr. Bryan asked to be told the vote on other candidates and was especially interested in that for Senator LaFollette. He said he had no comment to make on the convention's work but would soon, probably tomorrow prepare a statement of his views on the Republican platform.

WARM WIRELETS.

Three men, members of the Ninth New York National Guard Regiment, are reported fatally injured in an accident at Battery Dix during the bombardment of the mimic war fleet from Fort Wadsworth last night.

At Parkersburg, W. Va., according to information received from Sandy Creek, Jackson county, Mrs. Al Stairs, while temporarily insane Wednesday night, cut the throats of her two children and then killed herself. The children were aged 6 months and 2 years.

Associate Justice David J. Brewer of the United States Supreme court, in an address at Clark College commencement declared that the restraining power of the court of equity "should be enlarged, and not diminished," and that to restrict this power of the court is a "step backwards toward barbarism."

At Norfolk, Va., the Farmers' Manufacturing Company's barrel factory, south of the city was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon entailing a loss of over $90,000, with $40,000 insurance. The spectacular rescue of Charles Reed, a cripple, who was caught on the second story of the structure, by W. P. Barton, and John Ridley, two employees, was cheered by the hundreds of spectators.

The race for the gold cup was run at Ascot yesterday. W. R. Wyndham's "The White Night" was first, L. De Rothschild's "Radium" got second place and W. M. G. Singer's "Torpoint" was third. Six horses started. Richard Croker decided not to run his filly Rhodora because of her defeat yesterday in the biennial stakes.

The Letter A.

The letter A is in Hebrew called aleph, an ox, and the Phoenician character which represents this sound was originally a picture of an ox head; hence the name. The right hand stroke of the A represents the top of the head, the other down stroke the left side, and a line, since fallen out of use, represented the right side of the head, while in very old Phoenician manuscripts two dots above for eyes and two below for nostrils rendered the resemblance complete.

Private Herman Meisner

The Franco-Prussian war had just opened, and the German army was hurrying to the frontier. One morning before the day's march began a young recruit was brought before the colonel of the Eighty-seventh regiment of the line in arrest.

"This is Private Herman Meisner," said his captain. "Last night he voluntarily relieved one of the guard and connived at the escape of a prisoner under charge of sleeping on post. He admits this, but says that the man he released, Carl Meisner, is his cousin."

It happened that the colonel was a kindly man, one who would naturally be touched by such friendly devotion. The culprit was a mere boy, with Saxon hair and blue eyes.

"How long have you been in the army?" asked the commander.

"Two weeks." "Captain, this young fellow is doubtless ignorant of the enormity of his offense, and we need every man at his post of duty. You may release him. Has the escaped prisoner been rearrested?"

"He has, colonel."

The march was resumed. In the evening as the colonel was refreshing himself with a smoke the captain returned with Private Herman Meisner again in arrest.

"Colonel," he said, "when the prisoners were inspected after the day's march Private Carl Meisner was missing, and this man, Private Herman Meisner, was in his place."

The colonel knit his brows.

"What did you do that for," he asked of the boy, "after my leniency to you this morning?"

"They told me my cousin would likely be shot for sleeping on post."

"That is his affair, not yours. Do you want to get yourself shot in his place?"

"I would rather, colonel."

"That's very, very noble—very noble of you, but it's unjust to yourself. It seems to me, captain, that this boy has the true elements of a soldier in him, but he needs instruction. You may return him to duty. Has the real prisoner been rearrested?"

"Yes, colonel."

The next morning Private Meisner was again brought before the colonel for having made a third attempt to free his cousin. This time he had failed to even get the prisoner away from the guard. The colonel sent the incorrigible Herman back to take his place with the other prisoners, to stand trial at the proper time for mutiny.

"You are a little fool," said the commander. "Your cousin will be shot for sleeping on post, and you will be shot for mutiny."

Herman smiled.

"Perfectly sane."

"Well, take him away."

The next day there was a roar of artillery at the front. As the colonel was mounting his horse the captain appeared and, saluting, said:

"The prisoners desire permission to take their place in the ranks for the coming battle."

"Grant it for any in whom you have confidence. I suppose those two cousins are among the applicants."

"Carl Meisner has applied. His cousin who tried to effect his escape has not."

"That's strange," said the colonel, and, putting spurs to his horse, he rode away.

That day was fought the battle of Gravelotte. When it was over the captain appeared before his colonel, this time with both the Meisner cousins.

"Colonel," he said, "I have to report that I decided to put all the prisoners in the ranks for battle. Carl Meisner, who was in arrest for sleeping on post, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry. His cousin Herman ran and hid himself behind a log."

The colonel looked at the prisoner in perplexity.

"And you," he said to Herman, "are the man who wished to get yourself shot to save your cousin?"

The colonel expected him to hang his head in shame. He did no such thing. He simply smiled, smiled with his beautiful blue eyes, his delicately curved lips, every feature in his boyish face.

"I wish," said the colonel to the captain, "they would stop robbing the cradle to procure material for the army." Then to Herman, "How old are you, boy?"

"Twenty."

The colonel sat thinking. Presently he said to the captain:

"See that the charges against Carl Meisner are withdrawn and make him a corporal. As for this coward—that the dickens he meant by trying to get himself shot in place of his cousin I don't know, but we can't be incumbered with him on a campaign—send him back under charges of both mutiny and cowardice."

Private Herman began to cry.

"What are you sniffling for?" began the colonel, when Carl interrupted him: "Colonel, she is a woman—my wife. We have two little children at home, and she should be there to take care of them. But she would not let me go to the war without coming with me, fearing I would get killed—just as if she could help that."

"Pshaw!" exclaimed the colonel. "A woman! That accounts for her strange behavior, ready to die in place of the man she loved, but no stomach for a fight. Well, captain, you must send Private Herman Meisner back home to take care of the children. I suppose the government won't give her transportation, so I will."

Swedenborg in Ruffles and Wig.

Swedenborg was a great deal in London, where he was known and admired and had several good friends, but his small knowledge of English and the impediment in his speech precluded him from any real intimacy. His slight figure, with its fine features and hazel eyes, was well known in the neighborhood of Coldbath fields, where he lodged, and he was often seen stopping to talk to the children, for whom he used to carry sweetmeats. He was always dressed in an old fashioned suit with lace ruffles and wore a full bottomed wig, carrying a sword and a gold headed cane. On Christmas eve, 1771, he had a stroke of apoplexy, and on March 29, 1772, the day he had foretold, he died at the house which he had himself named—Occult Review.

Antiquity of Tea Smoking.

"With your tea cigarettes," said the antiquary sternly, "you young ladies think yourselves very modern and decadent. But look here."

He took from a portfolio a French print of the seventeenth century that portrayed two men, with cumbersome pipes, charging the same from a box of China tea. "This shows you," the old man said, "the antiquity of tea smoking. It was a common thing in France 200 years ago. Blegnt mentions it, and Grand d'Aussay in his 'Histoire de la Vie Privee des Francais' describes it in detail. An old vice, a dead vice—for the French found that tea smoking racked the nerves—how very, very foolish you girls are to have revived it."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—Wendell, N. C., June 17.—Morris Terrell, the only son of Mr. C. E. Terrell, of Wendell, was fatally burned today about noon and died at 6:30 this evening, the accident taking place in his home. The little boy was only seven years old.

—Wilson, N. C., June 17.—Cards are out announcing the coming marriage of Miss Frances Eagles, of Edgecombe county, to Mr. Edward Young Love, of South Boston, Va. The marriage will take place at the home of the bride-to-be on Thursday, June twenty-fifth.

—The Ansonian: The whistle of the new furniture factory was heard Saturday when the saw mill was operated for the first time. Just a little while now before some chairs and bedsteads made at home can be bought from your Wadesboro merchants.

—Fayetteville Observer: Two prominent citizens of Fayetteville, have received State honors in the last twenty-four hours. Last night Captain James D. McNeill was re-elected for the 21st consecutive time President of the State Firemen's Association, and today Dr. J. F. Highsmith was elected President of the State Medical Society.

—Morehead City, N. C., June 17.—After a busy, pleasant and profitable day's session the North Carolina Bankers' Association adjourned, and the bankers from every section of the State are departing for their homes. The convention was called to order by President W. T. Old, who, after the roll-call and reading of the minutes, delivered his annual address in which he took a stand against the policy of multiplying small banks with but little capital stock.

—News and Observer: Raleigh's ball team left this morning for Winston, where it will play the remaining days of this week. Its two victories over Newbern put it in second place with Wilmington. Beason, who has been playing first base was yesterday Manager Kelly had to take his place and a magnificent difficult catch he made in the ninth inning, saved the day for Raleigh as it was the means of keeping the score tied till Raleigh won.

—News and Observer: Hon. Franklin McNeill, chairman of the North Carolina Corporation Commission, returned yesterday from Laurinburg, where he went to attend the funeral of his brother, Mr. John D. McNeill, which took place yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. McNeill was a prominent business man of Laurinburg and his wife was formerly Miss Sallie McEachern. He leaves four children, two sons and two daughters, the oldest sixteen years of age. There is deep sympathy felt for the family in their bereavement.

—Asheville, June 17.—The tenth annual session of the Great Council of Red Men in North Carolina was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning by Great Sachem E. A. Ebert, of Winston-Salem. After taking up the password the Great Council was formerly opened with invocation by Acting Great Prophet W. S. Liddell, of Charlotte. The committee on credentials was named as follows: O. G. Falls, L. W. Hollman, L. W. Green and J. B. Keeter. A communication was read from Great Prophet B. W. Taylor, who, since the last council session, has moved to Florida, expressing regret at not being able to be present. The great incoherence of the Great Council of the United States also sent regrets that he could not be present. The great incoherence, however, sent Mr. Rutherford, of Nashville, Tenn., to represent him.

—News and Observer: An announcement that will be of more than State-wide interest was made yesterday, it being that Miss Susan Graham Clark, of this city, and Mr. Joseph Ernest Erwin, of Morganton, are to be wed. Miss Clark is the daughter of Chief Justice Walter Clark, of the North Carolina Supreme Court, and Mr. Erwin is one of the leading cotton mill manufacturers of North Carolina, the secretary, treasurer and superintendent of the Alpine Cotton Mills, of Morganton, one of the chain of cotton mills under the direction of his brother, Mr. William A. Erwin of Durham. Miss Clark is one of the most cultured and attractive young women of North Carolina, one whose charming personality and earnest Christian work and example has made her loved and admired in a large circle of friends. Mr. Erwin is one of the most popular and highly esteemed men in the State, a leader in its industrial development, with a great number of friends.

—Reidsville, N. C., June 17.—The second day of the trial of the big suit for damage by Rev. C. M. Billings against the Charlotte Observer leaves quite a number of additional witnesses to be introduced by the defendant company. The plaintiff will then put up additional evidence and it is expected that the rest of the week will be consumed. Witnesses were introduced today to show that the plaintiff had left a charge at Waynesville under a cloud it having been stated that he was intimate with a servant girl there, also. The suit grew out of a similar charge against him in Blackville, South Carolina. The newspaper correspondent who sent the report of the affair to the Observer, was on the stand today, as were a number of other South Carolina and Western North Carolina people. Letters purporting to have been written by Billings to his servant girl were recognized by several South Carolina witnesses. Experts on hand writing gave their opinion that they were written by him.

BANK NOTES

The fact that this institution, starting at zero less than three years ago, has, in proportion to capital and surplus, built up a larger business than ever before shown by a National Bank in the South, argues what?

That its conservative policy and modern banking methods, combined with progressive public spirit and fair dealing with small as well as large accounts, is appreciated.

Perhaps you may have in mind opening an account or concentrating your business through a National Bank of strong resources and careful management.

Write or call to see us. We will be interested in going into the matter with you, whether business results or not. Capital and Surplus $300,000.00.

THE COTTON MARKET.

 New York, June 18.—The cotton market was less active today but showed renewed firmness after early irregularity and closed very steady at a net advance of 8 to 22 points. The sales for the day are estimated at 150,000 bales.

The market opened steady at a decline of one point to an advance of 3 points and during first few minutes sold about 1 to 6 points net lower owing to disappointing cables, favorable weather and crop reports and a renewal of yesterday's late selling movement. But offerings were by no means aggressive, particularly of the near positions and the market steadied up during the middle of the morning with the tendency upward during the balance of the day on covering of shorts, bullish crop considerations and reports of a break in the Red river levee near Alexandria, La. The new crop months responded rather slowly to old crop gains but were helped to some extent by predictions that high temperatures in the Southwest would cause shedding. Such crop news as reached the market, as a rule, however, was bearish and the strength of the near positions, including September was the main bull factor. All of the old crop months sold into new high ground for the movement and the close was not far from the best on active months. Spot markets in the South, officially reported, were unchanged to 1-8c higher.

Receipts at the ports today 7,678 bales against 7,846 last week and 2,805 last year. For the week 60,000 against 64,223 last week and 25,588 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 3,512 against 92 last year and at Houston 1,324 against 133 last year.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points higher; middling uplands 12 10; middling gulf 12 35; sales 200 bales. Futures opened steady and closed very steady.

LIVERPOOL MARKET.

(By Cable to the Morning Star.)
 Liverpool, June 18.—Spot cotton lower by 20 points. American middling fair 7.27; good middling 6.91; middling 6.63; low middling 6.25; good ordinary 5.67; ordinary 5.29.

The sales of day were 5,000 bales of which 300 were for speculation and export and included 4,500 American. No receipts. Futures opened quiet and closed steady. American middling GOC: June 6.04 1-2; June and July 5.97 1-2; July and August 5.91; August and September 5.65; September and October 5.35; October and November 5.22 1-2; November and December 5.15 1-2; December and January 5.12; January and February 5.09; February and March 5.09; March and April 5.09.

DRY GOODS MARKET.

 New York, June 18.—The dry goods market rules steady and generally quiet. The jobbing houses will hold their semi-annual clearance sales beginning June 24. About 2,000 bales of cotton goods have been sold for China shipment. The cotton yarn market is firmer under the influence of higher cotton. Advances of 1-4c a yard are announced in Southern staple ginghams. The men's wear trade is quiet.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

 New York, June 18.—The narrow restriction of the price movement continued to be the feature of the stock market today. Yesterday's downward tendency was not far extended before the movement turned and prices hardened again. Dealings were so insignificant in volume that this fact in itself deprived the movement of importance. Professional operations of the smaller sort apparently made up the whole market. Bulletins from the republican convention were made the basis for some of the operations of this kind. Some of the early depression was clearly due to doubts over the integrity of dividends. This was an after-effect of yesterday's decision to pass the dividends on Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis and Lake Erie and Western preferred stocks. It was most perceptible in stocks on which early dividend action is due and was most aggravated in some instances by the publication of implied doubts of the maintenance of the dividends. American Locomotive, Republic Steel preferred and Louisville and Nashville were examples of this class.

All three of the great foreign banks, the English, French and German, made strong returns, the gain in cash holdings of the German bank amounting to upwards of $17,000,000. The reduction in that institution's official discount rate was thus explained. The explanation of Berlin's continued demand for gold was more obscure. The local money market continued easy.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,855,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call. Total sales of stocks today were 293,700 shares.

FINANCIAL MARKET.

 New York, June 18.—Money on call easy 1 1-2 to 3 4 per cent, ruling rate 1 1-2, closing bid 1 1-2, offered at 1 3-4. Time loans dull and easy, sixty days 2 per cent, and ninety days 2 1-2 1-4 per cent, six months 3 1-2 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 3 1-2 to 4 per cent. Sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers bills at 4.8710 for demand and at 4.8550 for sixty day bills. Commercial bills 4.85. Bar silver 54 3-8. Mexican dollars 47.

THE NOMINATION FOR SECOND PLACE

The Only Question Now Interesting The Members of The Republican Convention.

MR. TAFT TO NAME THE MAN

To Give Him This Opportunity the Convention Postponed the Nomination of Vice President Until Today.

(By Wire to the Morning Star)
Chicago, June 18.—The Presidential candidate will be permitted to name his running mate if he so desires. No sooner had the convention adjourned today than Mr. Taft's immediate supporters set to work to ascertain his wishes regarding a candidate for the Vice Presidency.

"They wired him direct and, pending his reply, refused to voice any opinion as to the probable outcome of the balloting.

There was renewal in the interest of Senator Dooliver. There was a growing belief that Secretary Taft would declare for the Iowa Senator and it was freely predicted that he would be nominated in case the Secretary's preference should be known before the beginning of the balloting tomorrow.

In a caucus of the New York delegation tonight it was unanimously voted to back the whole State strength of 75 votes the candidacy of Representative James S. Sherman of Utica.
In the caucus tomorrow, State Chairman Woodruff said that he had been informed that the candidacy of John Hays Hammond had been withdrawn and that if desired by New York, Colorado would therefore give way on the roll call to New York in order to get Sherman's name early before the delegation; that he had official assurances also of the support of a number of the other States, especially including Michigan, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Maine, Iowa and Idaho.

The Iowa delegation in caucus tonight, finally went on record for Governor Cummins as their candidate for Secretary Taft's running mate. The vote was unanimous. 24 of the 26 delegates were present. Robert Halley, of Fort Dodge, was designated to make the nominating speech.

There was still talk tonight of the re-nomination of Vice President Fairbanks, but his stock went down before the frequently expressed opinion that Secretary Taft would not give him the preference of his endorsement.

In the hope of staving off the administration's understood preference for Senator Dooliver, George D. Perkins, chairman of the Iowa delegation wired President Roosevelt in the name of himself and 19 others of the committee as follows:

"The following members of the Iowa delegation protest in the strongest terms against the selection of Dol-liver as Vice President."

A RACE AGAINST TIME

Mrs. McCormick's Successful Effort to Catch Her Steamer.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)
New York, June 18.—Mrs. Robert S. McCormick, wife of the former American Ambassador to France, was the victor by minutes today in a one-thousand mile race against time. As a result, she was enabled to keep an engagement to sail for Europe on the steamship Kaiserin Auguste Victoria.
Mrs. McCormick had engaged passage on the big steamer some time ago, but her departure from Chicago was delayed until the last moment when it was found that there would be a margin of scarcely a quarter of an hour between the arrival of her train at Jersey City and the departure of the steamer from Hoboken, some distance away. Under ordinary conditions it would be possible to make the distance between the points in a taxi, but Mrs. McCormick did not wish to take the chance of the train being a little late, and wired ahead a request that the steamer be held to await her arrival. She was informed that this could not be done as the mail carrying contracts made prompt sailing mandatory. She was informed, however, that a fast tug would be in waiting for her at Jersey City and that she and her baggage would be taken on board immediately upon the arrival of the train and she would be transferred to the ship in the bay if possible. Fortunately the train came in promptly on time and a few minutes later Mrs. McCormick was on the special tug bound up the river for Hoboken. She arrived in time to climb aboard the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria just before the big ship dropped out into the river and started on her voyage.

With addresses of welcome by official representatives of the city and State the twelfth triennial convention of the International Sunday School Association began in Louisiana yesterday. President J. J. MacLaren, of Toronto, responded in behalf of 2,000 delegates and twice that many visitors.

commended Electric Bitters. I bought

JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS

Resigns the Position of Minority Leader in the House of Representatives—His Letter Setting Forth His Reasons.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)
Eufaula, Ala., June 18.—Congressman John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, has resigned the minority leadership of the House of Representatives to take effect December 1 next.
This announcement is made by Congressman H. D. Clayton, chairman of the Democratic caucus. In a letter to Mr. Clayton, Mr. Williams says:

"Washington, D. C., June 13.
"Hon. Henry D. Clayton, Chairman Democratic Caucus, Eufaula, Ala.

"Dear Henry: I write this letter to you as my resignation of the position of parliamentary floor leader for the minority, the resignation to take place upon the first Monday of December following this date. I have been thinking about it a good deal, and it seems to me that if the next House goes Democratic, whoever, is going to be speaker of that House ought to have at least the training of the last, or short session of this Congress, not only to fit him for its parliamentary duties, but also to make a more intimate acquaintance with the personnel on the Democratic side than he perhaps otherwise might have. If upon the other hand, the next House shall be Republican, the preliminary training will be just as necessary in order to fit him for the very arduous duties of leadership during the first Congress.

"I have not consulted any of my friends about resigning for fear they might attempt to dissuade me, and my opinion of the absolute correctness of the position which I am taking is so clear that I did not want either to be dissuaded or to appear obstinate towards them.

"I need not tell you, of course, because you know it, how much I shall personally welcome the release from hard work and from the limelight. As you and some close personal friends know I would because of the condition of my health, have laid down the work long before this but for the appearance of 'quitting while under fire.'

"I would not, however, permit the prospect of the work alone to make me quit if that were all. I am actuated solely by the idea that the course that I am taking is best for the party.

"In sending in the resignation this early, so that you can have it published, instead of waiting until next December, I have been actuated by the idea that it was due to the members of the party that they should have time between now and then fully to consider whom they wanted to succeed me.

"I have nothing but good feeling for all the Democrats in the House.
I am glad that in laying down the weapons with which they have armed me, I can do so with recollection that the last Congress was one almost unprecedented in Democratic annals in harmony of action and unity of purpose on the Democratic side.

"If the next campaign could be fought simply upon the issues made in the last Congress, I would have no sort of doubt of Democratic success. No matter what the issues may be and how things will turn out we will have the recollection of having stood shoulder to shoulder with one another and we can now with great reason entertain strong hope of Democratic governmental reformation.
Whether we earn success at the polls next November or not we have deserved it and that is all that any poor mortal can do. They cannot compel fate.

"I sincerely hope and express the hope to you and to the Democratic caucus that the tide of centralization and of Federal usurpation of governmental power has seen its height and is now on the ebb.

"With thanks for a co-operation and a personal affection that I do not feel conscious of having deserved, I am, Very truly yours,
JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS."

THE DENVER CONVENTION.

The Committee on Arranging the Hall Busily at Work.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)
Denver, Colo., June 18.—The members of the sub-committee on arrangements of the National Democratic convention who come to Denver next Monday to remain in session until after the convention will be here in time to see the work of putting the finishing touches on the convention hall.

Monday morning, according to present plans the auditorium will be turned over to workmen for the installation of the decorations that are said to be the most elaborate ever planned for a convention. The actual construction work on the building is practically complete with the exception of the basement rooms that will be used by the telegraph companies and press associations, and by committees for meeting rooms.

Today the singular of the permanent seats for the auditorium were placed in position in the balconies and galleries. All that remains to be done is the construction of the temporary floor over the space that will eventually be occupied by the orchestra seats, the building of a speaker's platform and the installation of the temporary seats. These chairs are now en route to Denver and will be received early next week.

TAFT NOMINATED ON FIRST BALLOT

Amid an Attempt to Stampede
The Convention Delegates For Roosevelt.

MOST REMARKABLE SCENE

Ever Witnessed in a National Convention—Taft-Roosevelt Platform Slightly Modified Adopted.
Vice President Today.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.) Chicago, June 18.—For President of the United States—William H. Taft, of Ohio.

Taft, on the first ballot; Taft by 702 votes—Taft by the unanimous consent of the convention.

Such is the record of the third day of the Republican National Convention of 1908, effected amid scenes of tumultuous enthusiasm, and after a nervous-racking continuous session lasting nearly eight hours. With the President named and the platform enunciated, there remains only the nomination of the Vice President to complete this momentous work. Tonight the whole city is given over to wild exultation in honor of the new candidate whose name goes echoing through the country.

The picture within the walls of the vast amphitheatre as the presidential candidate was named today was one truly grandiose in its magnitude. In front, to the right and left, below and above, the billowing sea of humanity, restless after hours of waiting and stirring from one emotion to another, stirring in a fever of expectancy for the culminating vote. The favorite sons of other States had been named, save Knox and LaFollette, and now on the roll call came Ohio. As the Buckeye State was reached the tall, gaunt form of Theodore E. Burton, with student-like face and severe black clerical garb, advanced to the platform to nominate Ohio's candidate.
He spoke fervently, with the ringing voice of an evangelist, which went ringing through the great building.
The close of his speech of nomination was the signal for the loosening of the long pent-up feeling of the Taft legions. Instantly the Ohio delegates were on their feet, other States following while the convention hosts, in gallery and on floor, broke into mad demonstration.

"Taft! Taft! W. H. Taft," same in a roar from the Ohioans.

Megaphones seemed to spring from concealed places and swell the Taft tumult into thunder. A huge blue silk banner bearing the familiar features of the statesman-secretary was swung before the delegates, awakening a fresh whirlwind of enthusiasm.

All semblance of order had been abandoned and the delegates' arena was a maelstrom of gesticulating men; the gudons of the States were snatched up by the Taft enthusiasts or borne under by the storm of disorder.
The band was inaudible—a mere whisper above the deafening volume of sound. For ten, fifteen, then twenty minutes, this uproar continued. It was a repetition of the scene of yesterday when the name of Roosevelt threw the convention into a frenzy, repeated in intensity and in almost induration. But there is a limit to the physical resources of throat and lung, and at last the tired voices died down to a hoarse shout and finally subsided.

The hull now gave the opportunity for the speech seconding Taft's nomination by George H. Knight, of California, his big round face beaming forth on the sympathetic multitude, and his splendid baritone voice welling forth like the tones of a great church organ. California's tribute to Taft was brief and fervid. Now there was another lull in the Taft movement while the remaining candidates were placed in nomination.

It was late in the afternoon before the convention, sweating with the intense heat and weary after nearly seven hours continuous session, reached the end of the flood of eloquence and the decks were at last clear for the culminating act—the ballot. But no; just as the last swell of oratory, the seconding speech for LaFollette, had died away, like a cyclone from a clear sky burst a LaFollette demonstration which swept the convention from its very bearings. It was the same deafening wave of sound that had greeted Roosevelt yesterday and Taft a little while before, intense and maddening and with the vital ring of genuine enthusiasm. The delegates sat calm and waiting, except the frantic Wisconsin, but the convention for the time being was in the possession of the galleries.

Now a singular transformation occured—gradually the whirlwind veered from LaFollette to Roosevelt. A banner bearing the Roosevelt portrait and waved from the gallery was the signal for change.

Amid this pandemonium and with the galleries in full control, Chairman Lodge ordered the roll call of States to begin for the vote on President. Such a call, under the circumstances, has probably never before occurred in the history of national conventions. A ballot was taken to nominate a candidate for President while the convention was cheering fancifully for a man whose name had not been presented to the convention.
Votes were being counted for Taft, while the people were shouting for Roosevelt. The delegates, however, cast their votes uninfluenced by the clamor of the crowd. More than this,
the first States on the call—Alabama, and Arkansas—had been relied upon by a few Roosevelt enthusiasts to start the stampede for the President, but they held by their instructions while the stampede raged all about them.

Seizing a megaphone the secretary shouted the roll of States—Alabama —Arkansas—but his voice was swallowed up in the mad uproar. Gradually, however, the curiosity of the multitude conquered their enthusiasm, and they lapsed into silence to hear the result of the roll call.

A hush of expectancy hung over the assembly as the call proceeded.
Hasty summaries showed that Taft was far in advance. When New York was reached the Taft column totalled 427.

Ohio carried the Taft total to 511 or 20 more than enough to nominate.
Still the call went on until the final result was announced by Chairman Lodge.

A great shout went up as Mr. Lodge concluded his announcement and with one accord the cohorts of Cannon and Knox and Hughes, and the other heroes, joined in a common tribute for the candidate of the party.

General Stewart L. Woodford, for Governor Hughes, moved to make the nomination of Taft unanimous; Senator Penrose, for Knox; Boutell, for Cannon, Henry, of Georgia, for Foraker, and Wisconsin for LaFollette, seconded the movement. The vote was given with a ringing cheer, and then with shouts of exultation over the new candidate, the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow when the nomination of Vice President will be made.

Earlier in the day the battle over the platform had occupied the close attention of delegates and spectators.
The platform as framed by the committee on resolutions, was read by its chairman, Senator Hopkins, of Illinois, while a minority report, reflecting the views of the supporters of Senator LaFollette, was presented by Congressman Cooper of Wisconsin.
It was on the one hand the sledgehammer blows of the Wisconsin men against combinations and monopoly, and on the other hand the warning of Hopkins against the "oculist doctrines of Wisconsin". The platform was adopted by an overwhelming vote, after many separate planks in the Wisconsin plan had been buried under adverse votes.

It was not until four hours had been spent over the platform that the convention was ready to proceed with the nominating speeches for President. First came the nomination of Cannon by Representative Boutell, of Illinois, seconded by Representative Fordney, of Michigan, which awakened a welcoming yell for the "grand old man" of Illinois.

The nominating speech for Fairbanks by Governor Hanly, of Indiana, was made amid intense confusion and constant interruption. Smarting under these discourtesies toward the Governor, Mayor Bookwalter, of Indianapolis, began his speech seconding the nomination of Fairbanks with a cutting allusion to the "steam roller" which was crushing out all opposition.

The convention gave enthusiastic welcome to the name of Hughes as General Woodford presented the Governor's candidacy in fervent words.

The name of Senator Foraker was placed in nomination by Judge C. B.
Mc Coy, of Ohio, and seconded by the eloquent negro delegate from Georgia, W. O. Emery, the latter winning a true ovation as he closed the splendid tribute to Foraker in the name of two million black voters. The call of Pennsylvania, brought the Keystone delegation to their feet in a wild demonstration for Knox and a little later Wisconsin followed with its enthusiastic tribute to Wisconsin's candidate, Senator LaFollette. The speeches concluded, the time for balloting arrived, with the results already given.

The platform submitted to the convention by the Committee on Resolutions differs in a few and unimportant features from the tentative draft. Of special interest is the anti-injunction plank, the text of which is as follows:

"The Republican party will uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts, State and Federal and will ever insist that their powers to enforce their process and to protect life, liberty and property shall be inviolate. We believe, however, that the procedure in the Federal courts with respect to the issuance of the writ of injunctions should be more accurately defined by statute and that no injunction or temporary restraining order should be issued without notice, except irreparable injury would result from delay, in which case a speedy hearing thereafter should be granted."

The platform begins with a highly laudatory endorsement of President Roosevelt's administration, copying precisely the language used in the tentative draft already published. It further declares unequivocally for tariff revision at a special session of Congress immediately after inauguration.

Among the new features injected by the committee on resolutions is a declaration that native citizens of Puerto Rico should be collectively made citizens of the United States.
It also favors admission of New Mexico and Arizona as separate States.
It declares with respect to the negro without reservation for enforcement of the 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments to the constitution.

In the plank favoring conservation of natural resources the specific mention made in the tentative draft favoring the White Mountain and Appalachian forest reserves is eliminated. Protection to American citizens is urged.

SHERMAN FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

The New York Delegation Will Cast Its Entire Vote For Him.

(By Wire to the Morning Star)
Chicago, June 18.—The New York State delegation in caucus tonight, with marked enthusiasm decided to cast its entire vote (78) for Representative James S. Sherman, of Utica, for Vice President. At a caucus of the Iowa delegation, it was decided to place Governor Cummins in nomination for Vice President tomorrow.
